When are you available to teach?

Touchstone's spring session consists of Symposiums held on May weekends. Summer sessions are three, five or six days, and are late May through early September. Fall Sessions are 2 or 3-day weekend workshops held through early October. Please include specific dates including the year you are looking to teach.

What is the description of the class you are proposing?

Touchstone accepts students from all levels including professional artists and craftspeople to beginners. Please write a description and title of the class you propose and the instruction level. Include ideal length of time, ideal skill level of students, techniques you plan to cover, and proposed project(s) to accomplish during the class. You are welcome to propose more than one workshop, or more than one version of a workshop. For example: you can propose a class, but explain how it could be adapted for one week or weekend. Describe any previous experience teaching similar workshops. Additionally, list the facility requirements, such as the kinds of equipment and supplies you would need.
